Data consolidation automates your manual monthly routines by simply adding customised web or mobile solutions into your existing processes.

Data Consolidation

Data consolidation involves the implementation of custom designed web or mobile solutions into your work processes which automate or streamline the submission of information and ultimately the consolidation of your output information.

Quite simply, if you or your employees spend countless hours putting together complex but routine spreadsheets of information from various sources, we can free up your time to spend on other much more important tasks.

Steps:

- You show us the final format of information or reports you require
- You show us how you manually create them each month
- We propose ways in which to automate those processes
- Need to extract information from other systems, no problem either
